

Neusis is published biannually. It accepts contributions in the history and philosophy of science and technology. Submissions are subject to review by the Editorial Committee and expert peers. The results of this review become available to prospective authors within a short period. All submissions must be written in Greek, followed by Greek and English abstracts.